Pacific Likely Arena of War

The rise of an Army-dominated cabinet in Japan last weekend increases tension in the Pacific and renews the oft-made prophecy that if the United States goes to war at all it is more likely to be in the Pacific than the Atlantic. The obvious reason for this fore-east is that Japan is fundamentally a sea power—and therefore the only tangible threat to joint British-U. S.

Stalin Calls on Population to Lend Army Aid

Germans, Allies Reported Driving Towards Rostov in Donets Basin

By the Associated Press The German high command said Monday that new wedges had been driven into Moscow's defense line with wo more Red army groups wiped out and that German soldiers and allies in southern Russia were sweeping anew toward the industrial Donets basin and Rostov, gateway to the oil riches of the Caucasus.

Moscow, under state of siege pro-claimed by Stalin, braced for the empact of German forces only 57 miles away at one point.

Emphasizing the seriousness of the situation confronting Russia the proclamation appealed to Moscows population to lend all aid to the Red army, ordered the execution of provaricators and spies. The Russians reported that a gi-gantic battle was raging on the two main aproaches to the city-in the region of Mozhaisk and Haloyarslaets, which are 57 miles airline west and 65 miles south of the city.

The Germans said their armies had pierced strong Russian defenses af several points on the central front before Moscow and said fierce Soviet counter attacks had failed to pinch the spearheads.

Two additional Red army groups were reported encircled and wiped out in the new thrust and an additional 7,000 prisoners were added to the staggering total the Germans already claim to have taken. London sources said the pace of the German ground offensive appeared to be abating compared with the first stages of the drive which started October 2, but they found no evidence that the weight of the assault was slowing up. With snow covering the Russian plains on the central front weather conditions become generally unfavorable for active operations. It was also reported that the Fin-nish drive from Petrozavodsk along the Murmansk-Leningrad railway, skirting Lake Onega on the west was meeting fierce resistance. Pradva, Moscow newspapers, detrict Scout oficials are: Buy Basye, clared that the Germans have already president; F. C. Crow, vice-president, lost nearly 4 million in killed and wounded since the invasion started

Fence Arrives for the SPG

Construction Started on 73 of 120 Permanent Buildings

With the arrival of wire fabric for the Southwestern Proving Ground fence, work will continue on this phase of the construction and a survey of specifications for the job reveals that this fifty-five miles of eight foot nonclimbable enclosure has few equals in the nation and is unique in some respects, SPG officials announced Monday.

The fence is provided for protection of the general public and will completely encircle the reservation, oPsts for the fence will be sunk in concrete and carry screw fastened angle arms at the top to which will be affixed strands of barbed wire, lmmediately inside the fence will be a gravelled patrol road. A feature of the fence construction is the installation of flood gates where streams are crossed. These gates are built so that at certain water levels the gates will automatically open and when the water level recedes the barriers will go back down.

With 73 of a total of 120 permanent facilities now under construction and with completion of htese structures estimated to be from 5 to ninety-eight per cent complete, plan of the project is growing more evident daily. All roads within the reservation are now usable and heavy grading over

HOW DOES BEER HELP THE FARMER?

Arkansas farmers benefit directly from beer taxes.

This year, more than $120,000 in beer taxes was used by the State for agricultural development.

This money went for the following purposes:

THE STORY: School teacher Mary O'Connor's heart goes out to young Jeanle Morris, left alone with stern but kindly old Lian Holmes, maid, by the mysterious murder of her sunt, Miss Millie, This, and the earlier murder of handsome Herbert Cord, who had courted Jeanle for two summers only to bring Margie Dixon to Paradise Lake this year as his fiancee, have the quiet resort agog. Miss Millie had been one of its oldest residents, along with inakeeper Chris Gordon. Maudie, Mary's mother, pooh-yoons the inquest's conclusion that gangster stask veretti murdered Cord, although reporter Dennis Flynn, and old fiame of Mary's assigned to the case, is inclined to believe he did. Maudie discovered both bodies, and Mary and Dennis feel she knows more than she is revealing. Jeanle tells Mary of a mysterious romance in Miss Millie's past. Then they talk of local editor Tod Palmer, obviously interested in Jeanle. best advantage.

but he kept reporter's hours, which meant he was usually comroad, and then got up when Maudie and I were having lunch. He wasn't having any picnic, though, I knew, because I kept tab on him through his stories in The Daily. Comparing them with those in the other papers, I could see that he was more than holding his own. But then I never knew Denny to be taken by the opposition. He seemed to live and work under the protection of some special star. Anytime he was in bad with his city desk he'd stumble on a front page story that would make him the white-haired boy again until his next fall from grace.

It must have been that luck that always carried him safely through our faded romance until that last patrol wagon episode. His luck had certainly deserted him then, for heaven knows I'd forgotten and forgiven plenty of other transgressions. Looking back "It's not impossible," I said, on them the humor always got "that Miss Morris may have had me. I DIDN'T buy them, though, for passing through the lobby I saw Margie Dixon. She was sitting on one of the chiniz-covered sofas with her silk-covered legs curled under her. She was leaning forward as though trying to hypnotize her special audience with those green eyes of hers. From what I could see she was succeeding.

Denny was sprawled beside her with a silly contented look on his funny face, and the two of them seemed to be having a grand time laughing and talking in a low, intimate "just-we-two" tone. (To Be Continued)
